COMPOSING SCIENTIFIC PROBLEM:

In the very beginning of the 21st century, the issue of the role of security seems to be upgraded more than ever. Numbers of analysis made and still make attempts to determine its definition, to present its features. The available evaluations try to determine - nearly in the same way - the security as a notion in consonance with societal and economic changes and to analyze the features of threatening situations waiting for us nowadays.

Among the numerous risk factors the migration including illegal migration represents a permanent element as a determining societal-economic security factor.

This security and the sense of security have to be guaranteed and sustained by - among others - the border control. The quality and the importance of the state border control are always defined by those acts' danger-grades that appear at the state border or relating to state border crossings and the society qualified those as illegal. This is a paradox procedure, in which the organizations responsible for border control struggle for prevention, detection and interruption of infringement in a way that during their measures they have to face with the necessities of the economic background system beside the priority viewpoint of the proportion.

For every state the border policing activity is one of the guarantees to preserve security and in the same time an important area of the migration policy. The procedure for formulating the legal and institutional background necessary for performing tasks derived from the EU accession and the migration including illegal migration management has been launched. Both in the EU and in our country significant measures had been taken to shape a modern border control system suitable for societal demands and humanitarian principles, To recognize the aspects and the difficulties of the EU accession concerning the Border Guard may serve with considerable consequences.

All of these made me create the subject of my research for surveying the missions of organizations dealing with border control, to search opportunities and solutions in varying circumstances. My survey is exclusively focuses on the institutional measures against border relating illegal acts qualified as petty offences by the Hungarian effective legislation and on the determination of missions to be performed in order to meet the societal norms concerning border policing. My dissertation extends to an era between 1990 and 2006, covering 17 years. Naturally I necessarily enlarged this period, where the revision of the antecedents for given subjects or the statements regarding the future demanded it.

I wish to prove my hypothesis concerning the fact that the organizations executing border control are able in most of the aspects to take measures effectively and meeting the societal demands against persons committing petty offences relating to state border and to manage activities endangering security sense of citizens in relation with state border related petty offences.

Based on the actuality of the theme I considered necessary and reasonable - according to the requirements of the scientific research work - to examine the functions of the state border and the relating petty offences, especially searching for opportunities in the activity of the Hungarian Border Guard.

The dissertation is leaning on my more than 20 year long border guard experience and on my knowledge gained at statuses of territorial executive, central professional leader and central senior leader in a narrower area of the alien policing and petty offences of the Border Guard during 13 years. The study applies and summarizes the outcomes of my accomplished researches.

OBJECTIVES OF RESEARCH:

1. In parallel with systematization of the missions of the Border Guard for prevention, detection and interruption of petty offences to analyze and evaluate the methods of the Border Guard for taking measures against persons perpetrating petty offences, to present the possibilities of a more effective task performing, to examine all those procedural orders what can be utilized by the transforming Border Guard or a future organization responsible for border control.
2. To demonstrate in a system-oriented examination that how the integration intention of Hungary and the changes in the illegal migration influenced the Hungarian border control. To scrutinize the relation system between the illegal migration and the petty offences, especially regarding Schengen based “Europe without borders”, the variation of societal and legal norms, and in consonance with formulation of the security risks.
3. To compare the EU border control system with that of the Border Guard, to examine this system, its suitability for the era demands, and to study further possibilities of the prevention and sanctioning of perpetrating petty offenses.
4. To analyze and evaluate the role of the readmission agreements in the migration management, the Hungarian practice of removal of persons perpetrating petty offences relating to state border, to demonstrate further possibilities in the application of readmission agreements for the effective measures against petty offences.
5. By applying the methods of analysis and synthesis to determine and modeling the future possible missions of the Hungarian authority responsible for border control and its measures against persons perpetrating petty offences.

METHODS OF RESEARCH:

- I examined and explained the relation system of migration including illegal migration and border related petty offences, changes of the legal norms regarding the accession to the EU and the Schengen Implementation Agreement.
- Based on international and national statistics I analyzed the evolution of migration flows of Central – Eastern Europe, especially that of reaching Hungary.
- I categorized the petty offences tasks of the Border Guard, I revealed the influencing factors during task performing, and I proved from practical side the anomalies of the legislation.
- I surveyed the legal and other rules for the execution of alien policing tasks of the Border Guard, the present and the future situation of the task performing,
- I studied, analyzed and assessed the available documents, relevant publications, international and national scientific articles, information databases.
- I examined the relevant Hungarian and European legal sources and other ruling documents, I discussed with researchers and colleagues acting in the field, I looked into the archives of the Border Guard and making surveys and at last but not least other writings, articles were used up for presenting the issue in a vary way.
- I participated in study visits, international conferences in more European Union and Accession countries, and I carried out surveys on site at the organization of the Border Guard (central, local and regional)
- I had conversation with national and international (Schengen) border guards, and representatives of organizations managing migration for revealing problems, analysis and categorizations.

- I introduced my statements on more national and international seminars and conference concerning migration and border control. I continuously publicized the outcomes of my researches.

SUMMARY OF THE ACCOMPLISHED RESEARCH ACTIVITY , THE CONSEQUENCES:

In Chapter 1 of the dissertation I dealt with the appearing forms of the state border related petty offences, the missions of the Border Guard in the interruption, detection and sanction of the illegal acts. I demonstrated the evolution of the legal branch of petty offences, I investigated historically and revealed the appearing of the state border related petty offences, the changes of the societal and legal judgment of the illegal border crossings, I presented the basic rules, principles and aims of the effective petty offences regulations, I categorized the execution order of the tasks of the Border Guard relating the petty offences, I listed up the legal authorization of the Border Guard relating petty offences. Meanwhile the exposition of the current effective legislation I revealed the anomalies of the current legislation by the clarification of the place of the Border Guard in this system. By the categorization of the current border guarding task performance I justified my hypothesis, which states that the recognition of the problems proved by me itself identifies numerous measures. The anomalies founded in the practical execution can be derived firstly from the lack of the legislation or from inaccuracy.

The reveal of above mentioned legal discrepancies made me possible to draft recommendations for dissolving existing contradictions– based on the outcomes of my researches - for the Border Guard ( or a future organization responsible for border control).

In Chapter 2 I dealt with the re-evaluation of the state border related petty offences in the light of the Hungarian accession to the Schengen Implementation Agreement, I analyzed the basic and relevant elements of the Schengen acquis, I conferred those with the effective Hungarian legislation. I justified that the “codicator is in forced legislation”. Referring to the theme I stated that the relation system of Schengen Membership and the societal judgment of the border related petty offences was not subject of any significant research in Hungary. Throughout the analysis of the Community and Hungarian legislation in the field, and the categorization of information and knowledge gained at different professional forums and practical work I proved that the cause and effect relations explored by me and the dissolution of the discrepancies means numerous measures until the Schengen accession. By the explanation of Schengen internal and external borders I justified the necessity of wide and complex survey of legislation referring to the illegal state border crossing and clarification of the relating contradictions. I made recommendations for the dissolution of existing anomalies and I phrased concrete legal texts.

In Chapter 3 I demonstrated the experience of the Border Guard in the application of readmission agreements, the system of cooperation among organizations responsible for border control, the practice of simplified readmission of perpetrators. I stated that the perpetrators in the field of state border relating petty offences and alien policing petty offences are those illegal migrants, whose interruption of their illegal acts means a significant challenge for the measuring authorities. I verified that on of the highly effective ways of removal of the Hungary declared personas non grata is the application of readmission agreements, what is a well operating complex system. I demonstrated the possible roles of border guard in the system.

I certified that the readmission agreements give an excellent base for the Border Guard (or other organizations in the future responsible for border control) to become one of the important elements of the border related co-operations. I determined that the tasks deriving from readmission agreements – out of their international features – appear without political and institutional transformation, thus the achievement of these tasks will be a constant, continuously upgrading task for the actual organization responsible for border control.

In Chapter 4 I compared the border control system of the European Union and that of Hungary according to the so-called “Ten Schengen filters”. These filters are policy, economy, communication tools in migration management, application of visa system, deployed document experts, liaison officers, responsibilities of carriers, border control system of transit countries, secure third countries, strict external border control, compensatory measures, surveillance of internal borders. The filters are jointly suitable for ensuring a high level of border control. After comparison of Schengen and Hungarian filters I justified that Hungary, based on the evaluation of border security aspect, is prepared for Schengen accession.

In Chapter 5 I revealed the possible methods of measures of state border related petty offences. I affirmed that development of border related illegal acts and the perpetrating behaviors are least influenced by the nature of the organization performing the detection, interruption and sanctions. Instead of it the effective arrangements bears much higher influence in the measures against illegal acts. Leaning on my statements I made recommendation for reconsideration and re-regulation of petty offences tasks of the future organization responsible for border control. I compiled that professional argument system what justifies the scope of competency for border guarding authorities and ensures the right for imposing fine on the spot. I elaborated a conception for implementing system of authority competency and for a possible logical chain of the procedure.

In Chapter 6 I summarized my researching activities, recorded my achievements. This chapter is followed by the list of referred legal rules, list of professional literatures, records of my publications, and the annexes.

NEW SCIENTIFIC RESULTS:

1. I analyzed, synthesized, and categorized in a unique system and demonstrated in details the petty offences missions of the Border Guard fixed in legal rules, its authorization and task performing system. This part of the results of my research was published in 2002 with the title of “ Handbook of the Border Guard on Petty offences” as a unified, assisting manual for the execution and as a university material. I justified the reasonableness of the change in legislation, to which I phrased concrete texts proposals.
2. I conferred the consequences of my survey in Schengen Acquis with the present Hungarian effective petty offences legislation, I pointed out the societal norm changes of national legislation concerning the petty offences state of affaires of illegal border crossing following the accession. I proved the necessity of the legislation changes, and for this purpose I made concrete text proposals to the definition of crossing internal and external borders of Schengen what is in opposition with the legislation, and of the possibilities of sanctioning.

3. I compared the principles of the EU border control with the operating border control system of the Republic of Hungary. As a result of the survey I stated that the Hungarian border control system meet the requirements of the EU norms and is able to combat effectively against the illegal migration.
4. I demonstrated and analyzed the role of the readmission agreements in the migration management and the practice of the removal of persons perpetrating state border relating petty offences. I justified that the application of readmission agreement is the most effective methods for the removal of illegal migrants from the territory of the republic of Hungary. I revealed and presented the further possibilities of the readmission agreements.
5. As a result of my research work I defined for the organization responsible for border control new type of missions concerning measures against the state border related petty offences, I certified their raison d'être. I made text proposals for the legislation changes cornering the activities. I modeled the procedure of execution of new missions regarding the scope of authority for petty offences of the organization responsible for border control.

PRACTICAL APPLICATION OF RESULTS OF RESEARCH:

- Major parts of the results of my research have already been utilized by the relevant professional fields in the Border Guard regulations and in the practice as well – by utilizing and adaptation of my different publications.
- One part of the results of my research was published in 2002 with the title of “Handbook of the Border Guard on Petty offences” as a unified, assisting manual for the execution and as a university material.
- The texts of legal norms drafted by me, in addition the attached explanation may give assistance in the procedure of legislation forming, during the development of the border control system in the EU and in the country.
- My dissertation could be resource of and be theme of further researches and can be used in the education as well.

RECOMMENDATIONS FOR DIRECTION OF FURHTER RESEARCHES:

- To take subject of further surveys I would recommend the issue of effective use of service methods for measures against illegal migration in case of change in the responsible organization referring to the integration procedures of the mission of border control, furthermore the definition of the optimum system of task performing with attention to the principles defined in my dissertation.
